- New theological articles
- Central themes for theology and faith
- Perspectives of renewal

According to Walter Cardinal Kasper, a response to the crisis of tradition in church Christianity requires more and different approaches than just superficial modernisations. It presents the basic question of how the Gospel of Jesus conveys the norm-setting origin of Christianity in Church history and opens up the future. This volume contains three new, previously unpublished essays on renewal from the origin, as well as the themes that moved the great German theologian throughout his life. He provides answers to these questions: What does it mean to practice theology in the Church? Who is Jesus the Christ for the believers? How do believers experience his presence in the celebration of the Eucharist?
