- 40 unusual marmalade creations that cannot be bought or found on the Internet in this form
- For people who also enjoy occasionally experimenting in the kitchen
- With many tips and tricks related to the topic of marmalade & co.

Who actually decides what is allowed in marmalade and what is not? No one, according to Frank Winter. The result of his marmalade experiments are extraordinary creations, into which herbs, dark beer, gin, cocoa or red beets have wandered at times. His best and most extraordinary creations with sonorous names such as »Bathed in Rose Water« or »Orange Fire« are found in this book.

About the author

Frank Winter studied German philology, sociology and philosophy. For his book Schottisch kochen (Scottish Cooking), he received a silver medal from the Gastronomic Academy of Germany (GAD). There are also many recipes in his Scotland gourmet thrillers. Making marmalade has a long tradition in his family, and he loves to try out unusual combinations.
