- Experiences by and for families
- Religion as a happiness factor

Perceiving and mutually experiencing God within their own family in everyday life gives children a good portion of basic trust for their lives. The coexistence of adults and children succeeds with more harmony and confidence. Albert Biesinger – father of four children and nine-time grandfather – knows what he is talking about.

He shares his experiences with many examples from the practice here. He encourages parents to experience the encounter with children as touching God. This is supported by empathetic affection, rituals, stories, conversations, good solutions for conflicts and praying together: being angels for each other. This allows religiousness in the family to become a gift for young and old.

About the author

Albert Biesinger was a professor of religious education and continuing religious education in the department of Catholic Theology at the University of Tübingen, Germany. He works as a deacon and is the father of four grown children. He has published several successful books about religious training and has made a name for himself as an author of children's books. He especially enjoys writing books for children together with his granddaughter, Sarah.
